Section 4 – Dollar cost averaging instruction

Dollar cost averaging is available for additional contributions of $25,000 or above.

The additional contribution will be initially invested in the Futurity Sectoral Active – Cash Investment Option (or another cash Investment Option as we determine from time to time) and progressively switched into your chosen Investment Options monthly according to your Default Investment Allocation, as at the time of each switch, over your selected number of monthly dollar cost averaging switches.

Please specify below the number of monthly dollar cost averaging switches to be made and the direct debit date, if you want to dollar cost average your additional contribution according to your Default Investment Allocation.

Number of monthly dollar cost averaging switches:

(maximum of 12 switches)

Dollar cost averaging direct debit date:

/

The dollar cost averaging direct debit date can only be scheduled within the next 30 days.

The direct debit for your dollar cost averaging will be made on the date provided above, or the next Melbourne Business Day if the date falls on a weekend or public holiday. If the dollar cost averaging direct debit date is not provided or if the date provided is before the application is received and processed by Futurity, then the dollar cost averaging direct debit date will be the day the application is received and processed by Futurity. The unit price applied to the dollar cost averaging amount is determined by the date the direct debit clears, not the date funds are debited from your bank account.

The dollar cost averaging direct debit date also sets the day of the month for each subsequent monthly dollar cost averaging switch, or the next Melbourne Business Day if the switch date falls on a weekend or public holiday.

Important: If you have selected to use the auto-reweight facility, commencing a dollar cost averaging facility will cancel and remove the auto-reweight facility from your bond. New auto-reweight facility instructions can be provided after the dollar cost averaging facility has ended.
